What Is a YouTube Calculator?

A YouTube calculator is a simple online tool that calculates an estimate of how much money you can earn from your YouTube channel.

Calculating your potential earnings from YouTube is a great way to see if it is worth your time to start a channel and begin creating videos for certain niches. It can also help you set realistic expectations for the average earnings you can expect.

As with most social media and video sharing networks, YouTube suffers from its share of fake accounts and fake subscribers. Wherever there is a way of making money, you are sure to find somebody trying to game the system.

CPM or Cost Per Mille (Thousand) is the amount of money that an advertiser pays you for every one thousand views of their ad. So, if an advertiser paid you $5 CPM, then you would earn $5 for every 1,000 views of their ad.

Watch time – This is the total amount of time that people have spent watching your video. The longer they watch, the more engaged they are.

Viewer retention – This is the percentage of people who watch your video through to the end. The higher the retention rate, the more engaged your viewers are.

Click-through rate – This is the number of people who click on the adverts that are shown in your video. If you have a high click-through rate, it means that your viewers and followers are interested in the products or services that are being advertised.

The actual rates an advertiser pays varies, usually between

$0.10 to $0.30 per view

But averages out at $0.18 per view.

Around 15% of viewers on average watch the requisite 30 seconds of a video ad to count for payment.

Google pays out 68% of their AdSense revenue, so for every $100 an advertiser pays, Google pays $68 to the publisher.

How much is 1 million YouTube views worth? For a video with 1 million views, the average pay falls between $2,000 and $3,000 if you use ads on your videos.

What strategies for gaining YouTube views aren't allowed?

Services that attempt to get YouTube views through automated means or attempt to force or trick viewers into watching videos are not ok. This could include the following:

Purchasing views from third-party websites (e.g. paying $ 60 for 10,000 views)
(0,06 cent/ views) (To buy 100 million views, price 60 000 USD)
Every 1 million views is $1,000–$2,500. (Payments from YouTube)
(1 000 USD x 100 = 100 000 USD income – costs 60 000 USD = 40 000 USD income net)
(2 500 USD x 100 = 250 000 USD income – costs 60 000 USD = 190 000 USD income net)

Deceptive layouts on third party websites that trick viewers into playing a video when they click unrelated elements on the page.
Serving pop-unders: A new window that appears under a current window.
Redirects: When the URL changes and sends the viewer to a new page in the middle of a click.

It's Illegal (It's Not!)

Buying YouTube views is not illegal in any way, shape, or form. It should be noted that some tactics are against YouTube's terms of service (TOS), such as bot views or tricking people into watching a video, but even then, they are 100% legal. The list above shows the most legal websites to buy YouTube views from in 2022! No matter what you read on the internet, don't use robots to continually refresh your videos. You're missing "view duration", a critical part of the algorithm. (Example price 60 USD/10 000 views) (from: Social Empire)

Your Video Will Get Deleted (It Won't!)

Wrong. Your video will not get deleted or removed because you buy views. If you buy views from cheap providers, your views may drop at one point, but your video won't get removed because of it. YouTube only removes videos that have illegal content or content against its TOS. Besides, purchasing views are not explicitly in violation of YouTube's TOS.

Your Account Will Get Banned (Impossible!)

Again, your account will only be banned if you are posting videos with illegal content or content against YouTube's TOS. If you are purchasing views from a reputable provider, your account won't be banned simply because you are buying views. Why? If they did, everyone would buy YouTube views on their competition to get them banned deliberately!

Many people automatically assume that all bought views have been falsely generated using automated techniques. The reality is that purchased views are not all entirely fake or inorganic. It merely means that you have paid to get someone to watch your video instead of the person watching it organically without any compensation.

It can also be said that you buy YouTube views from YouTube itself through ads, as they guarantee views based on a dollar amount. When it comes to buying views, some providers may offer real, quality views while others may offer fake, bot views. It varies. Again, this is why it is so important to choose a high-quality, reputable provider. We have spent a lot of time and effort updating our website as the years go on!

Top YouTubers Don’t Buy YouTube Views

Many people think that buying views is done only by beginners, amateurs, or nobodies. The fact is, with all the benefits that purchasing quality YouTube views have, there are thousands of top YouTubers, companies, artists, and celebrities that buy views for the same kick-starts, social proof, and ranking improvements. Ultimately, buying YouTube views is a common strategy, and many prominent YouTubers have reaped its benefits.

Buying YouTube Views Is the Ultimate Strategy

While buying views has its benefits, it's not an all-in-one strategy. It's a tactic, and there are dozens of other tactics for gaining more views that you should use. YouTube doesn't just rank content on views alone. It also places a substantial amount of emphasis on engagement, considering which is sharing your videos and commenting on them.

When it comes to accruing YouTube views, the key is to post compelling, high-quality content and to have a comprehensive YouTube optimization strategy to ensure that that content is seen. Elements of an optimization strategy should include: adding relevant tags and high-quality titles to ensure that users can discover your content, adding closed captioning, and ordering videos into a playlist. After you buy views, be sure to check out the other tactics for getting more YouTube views to create your own strategy in growing your YouTube presence and attracting targeted viewers from all over.

Reasons you should definitely consider buying YouTube views are to:

Gain a lot of YouTube views quickly

Get a higher chance for your video to go viral

Attract more organic views
Boost the social credibility of your YouTube account

Attract YouTube subscribers organically

Increase your popularity on YouTube

Have other creators take you seriously

Buying YouTube views is a widespread practice, and rightly so. It's not enough to create high-quality videos. You need social proof to make it on the network, and buying views for your video gives it a push in the right direction. Buy YouTube views from reliable providers and get started on growing your YouTube channel organically.

In conclusion, buying YouTube views can be an excellent way to boost your content's visibility on YouTube and drive organic viewers to your videos. The key, however, is to purchase from a trusted provider that's known for delivering high-quality views and integrate buying views into a larger, comprehensive YouTube optimization strategy. This will help maximize the power of purchasing by driving more organic traffic to your content.
